Prime Minister Abe had been prime minister between 2006-2007, and 2012-2020, which makes him the longest serving prime minister in our modern history. During his tenure, he has vastly developed Japan's global political, economic, and military role, and thus greatly enhanced the US-Japan alliance. Democracy, rule of laws, human rights, which are core common values between the US and Japan, are facing mounting challenges by those who believe might is right, and the US and Japan are standing up together to uphold and promote them. Prime Minister Abe, through his close cooperation with President Bush, President Obama and President Trump, has played a pivotal role to strengthen our alliance in order to defend these values. We are shocked and saddened by the loss of a great statesman. Overcoming this tragedy, we will carry on his spirit and further promote our alliance to protect our common values.
